

ICO launches its third green bond to finance projects by Spanish companies to contribute to the ecological transition

Instituto de Crédito Oficial (ICO) has launched its third green bond, a €500m deal that will be used to finance projects that contribute to the ecological transition in order to consolidate the recovery and promote sustainable economic growth in line with the key pillars of the National Recovery, Transformation and Resilience Plan.

The issue gained a demand of more than 2 billion euros, making it possible to lower the spread initially set at 10 basis points over the Treasury benchmark with the same maturity to 6 basis points, the lowest spread achieved by ICO in a public benchmark transaction.

94% of the bonds have been distributed among international accounts. Regarding the distribution by type of investor, it is worth noting the demand registered by asset managers, who have acquired 53% of the total volume.

63% of the bonds have been placed among sustainable investors, which once again shows how favourably ICO bonds are received by specialised investors and reinforces ICO's role as a benchmark issuer in this market.

With a term of six years, the operation had a re-offer yield of -0.104% at issuance.

Spanish Economy: latest figures and comments

Recent macro developments

The favourable developments in the Covid-19 vaccination campaign and the progressive easing of virus containment measures are fostering the recovery of the Spanish economy. This is reflected in the historic hikes registered in the PMIs, which are reaching unseen levels in more than 20 years. Manufacturing PMI grew from 57.7 points in April to 59.4 in May and 60.4 in June. Services PMI raised from 54.6 in April to 59.4 in May and 62.5 in June. As a consequence, Composite PMI reached historical highs. Moreover, business sentiment remained comfortably inside positive territory during the 2nd and the beginning of the 3rd quarter of 2021, anticipating a positive performance of key indicators like GDP.

The number of employed workers (affiliated to the Social Security Scheme) reached 19.5 million in June, which meant more employed people than in December 2019 (19.4 million). In parallel, figures of unemployed people showed a downward path until June. Besides, the decline of the number of people under short-time work schemes (ERTEs) continued steadily during this period.

Spanish Recovery, Transformation and Resilience Plan received the final approval of the European Union institutions in July 2021. This Plan foresees how Spain will invest the 69.5 billion euros in grants that it will receive from the EU between 2021 and 2023. 40% of the total amount will support climate objectives, in line with the EU Green Deal, while 28% of the Plan will support digital objectives. The Plan links these investments with reforms in several fields like labour market, tax system or pension reform. After the endorsement of EU institutions, Spain will receive in the coming weeks 9 billion euros of pre-financing.

The European Commission released its 2021 Summer Forecast. Spanish GDP will grow by 6.2% in 2021 and 6.3% in 2022. Consequently, it will be well above of the EU and the Euro Area average (4.8% in 2021 and 4.5% in 2022). The Commission foresees that after the contraction of the 1st quarter (-0.4% qoq), GDP will grow by 2.0% qoq in the 2nd and by 3.1% qoq in the 3rd quarter. Accordingly, the Commission forecasts a "solidification of the recovery in the second quarter that is expected to continue afterwards". The main drivers of growth will be a strong rebound of private consumption and investment. Regarding investment, the above mentioned funds that Spain will receive will contribute to this recovery, particularly in 2022. The International Monetary Fund has also released an update of its World Economic Outlook where it foresees that Spanish GDP will grow by 6.2% in 2021 (well above the Euro Area Average of 4.6) and by 5.8% in 2022 (in 2022, Spain will have the highest GDP growth rate among all advanced economies according to the IMF).
